A TASTE OF JESOLO

Spritz

The legend of the birth of the Spritz dates back to the 1800s during the Habsburg domination. In fact, it appears that the Austrians had taken up the habit of visiting the Venetian winebars; however, the local wine was much more alcoholic than what they were used to. Hence the idea of watering down the wine a bit, to make it lighter, leading to the name "Spritz"(from the German verb "Spritzen", to spray, due to the addition of cold water). Now it's become a trendy aperitif. The basic ingredients of the Spritz are: sparkling water or seltz, Prosecco and according to tradition Aperol or Bitter, but the darker Cynar or China Martinican can also be used. The essential feature of the Spritz is its red colour that comes from the beverage added to the wine.
